GRADUATING EXERCISES

he Greensboro Memorial Coliseum was the place chosen for the Woman's College's first off-campus graduating exercises. For the last four years, in an effort to stage the exercises more adequately and comfortably than had been possible in Aycock Auditorium, plans were made for out-of-door services. Unpredictable weather played havoc with these plans. This year's selection of the coliseum provided acres of parking spaces and thousands of seats.

The exercises began at 3:00 on Sunday afternoon (May 29). Dr. William Fletcher Quillian, Jr., president of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, was guest speaker and baccalaureate preacher. President William C. Friday extended congratulations to the 485 graduates on behalf of the University of North Carolina. Chancellor Gordon Blackwell presided and in his remarks on behalf of the College said: "We hope that in your years here you have become an educated woman in the fullest sense, but that you have no illusion that your education has been completed. In truth, it is but begun." Barbara Boerner '60 was the student speaker.

With honor

Twenty-three students were graduated with honor. Summa cum laude: Sara Jane Toenes of Greensboro. Magna cum laude: Ethlyn Boone of Charlotte, Marian Jones of Benson, Sandy Margolis of Williamston, Mary Moore Upchurch of Clinton, and Martha Yates of Greensboro. Cum laude: Priscilla Baker of Westfalls, New York, Patricia Barbee) daughter of Irma Newman Barbee '21) of Bethel, Lelia Rose Evans of Youngsville, Faye Fuquay of Greensboro, Margaret Hambright (daughter of Sara Lee Goode Hambright '26) of Blacksburg, South Carolina, Mary Ann Hancock of Charlotte, Martha Ann Helms of Marshville, Shirley Jane Holton of Winston-Salem, Maria Lamprinakos of Asheville, Brenda McLeod of Lexington, Mary Ann McNeely of Greensboro, Peggy Peterson of Clinton, Mary Patricia Rose of Paducah, Kentucky, Jacqueline Money Sechrist of Thomasville, Patricia Stephenson of Smithfield, Chrystelle Trump of Manchester, Maryland, and Frankie Wolfe of Landis.

Awards

Awards for graduate study announced in the graduation program: Henry Weil Fellowship, to be shared by Marian Jones, Sara Toenes, Mary Moore Upchurch, and Martha Yates; the Consolidated University Graduate Fellowship, Lelia Rose Evans.

During the Sunday exercises honorary degrees were awarded to Bernice Kelly Harris (Doctor of Letters), Sadie McBrayer McCain '16 (Doctor of Humane Letters), and Ann Thomas Gary Pannell (Doctor of Laws).

Citations were presented as follows:

BERNICE KELLY HARRIS: Native North Carolinian; graduate of Meredith College and graduate student in the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; dedicated teacher in the public schools; pioneer worker in the development of folk drama in the early classes of Frederick Koch; writer recognized at home and abroad for your fresh discovery of Eastern Carolina scene and character; leader in your community and in your state in artistic, historical, and literary affairs; a woman enshrined in the hearts of your people for distinguished literary achievements, devotion to home, and generous service to your fellowmen.

SADIE McBRAYER McCAIN: Daughter of the Woman's College, whose motto, "Service," you have made your own; Daughter of North Carolina, whose people and welfare you have served with devotion. Believer in the good life, you have worked tirelessly that minds, bodies, and spirits of North Carolinians might be strong. As teacher, university trustee, and dean of women, you have advanced the progress of education on many levels. As mother of five children and the State's Mother-of-the-Year in 1945, and as an industrious and faithful church woman at home and afar, you have, by your influence and boundless goodwill, reached and nourished the very grass roots of North Carolina and her people.

ANNE THOMAS GARY PANNELL: An A.B. graduate of Barnard College and the holder of the Ph.D. degree from Oxford University, the winner of many awards and grants of national and international significance; researcher, teacher, author; by virtue of experience and insight, an able promoter of international understanding; wife and mother; President of a distinguished sister institution, Sweet Briar College; daughter of North Carolina—you lead the way to the highest levels of achievement of women everywhere.

A fourth honorary degree was awarded to Nancy Duke Lewis (Doctor of Laws) by Chancellor Blackwell at a special presentation in Providence, Rhode Island, in mid-June. Because of illness, Miss Lewis was unable to attend the graduating exercises in May. The citation presented in her behalf follows:

NANCY DUKE LEWIS: Dean of Pembroke College, Brown University. A native of Kentucky, holder of bachelor's and master's degrees in mathematics from your state's university, Phi Beta Kappa. For five years counselor at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, where you were respected and loved by faculty and former students for your warmth, serenity, and competence. Since 1943 at Pembroke College; Dean of the College since 1950. Member of numerous educational boards and foundations. Recipient of many honors, including the honorary doctor's degree from Tufts University in 1956 and from Muhlenberg College in 1957. Recognized as one of the chief voices for the educated women of America, from both platform and published word. Defender of culture in the best sense, cpitomizing the finest qualities of the American woman in action.

As is customary, the first order of business was to accept formally into the membership of the association the members of the graduating class. Ellen Griffin of Greensboro, chairman of the Undergraduate Relations Committee, so moved. Sandy Margolis of Williamston, who was elected everlasting president of the Class of 1960 at the last class meeting, introduced her classmates who were elected to serve with her: vice-president Sally Haney of Morganton, secretary Doris Ann McGill of Maxton, treasurer Mary Ann Hoover of Winston-Salem, and alumnae representative Mary Clyde Chisholm of Asheboro.

Election Results

The results of the annual mail-ballot election were made public for the first time. Pat Markas '53 of Durham was elected to succeed Marjorie Hood as first vice-president, and Alma (Bullard) Thompson '48 of Winston-Salem, Betty Bullard '52 of Asheville, Peggy Crow '55 of Raleigh, and Katherine (Wolff) Brandon '26 of Hickory were elected to the Alumnae Board of Trustees. The results of the election were declared official by an associational vote; those elected will be installed for the 1961-63 term of office in January at the Mid-Winter meeting of the association.

Alumnae Fund

Dacia Lewis, second vice-president and chairman of the Alumnae Fund Committee, presented the 1959 Fund gift ($1,500) to Chancellor Gordon Blackwell for his discretionary use. In subsequent comments Dr. Blackwell noted that, among other uses to which the Alumnae Fund gifts have been put in recent years, the following show the diversity of the needs which alumnae through their annual giving have helped satisfy: (1) the financing of a business education conference, (2) a scholarship for an outstanding student, (3) the purchase of memorial markers for campus buildings, (4) the financing of an organ recital by a nationally known musician, (5) a lecture by an historian from Great Britain. Alumnae funds have been used further (6) to help send two students to a conference on the National Security Policy, (7) to help with the expenses incident to the production by the School of Music of two operas, and (8) to supplement funds for faculty travel for professional purposes.

Award I

ALUMNAE SERVICE AWARD 1 was presented to Laura (Weill) Cone '10. (Comments about the award and the first recipient appear elsewhere in this issue.)

Program

Chancellor Blackwell, at Judy Barrett's invitation, introduced the meeting's program, which in itself meant an introduction of the four new deans of the schools within the College and the Director of Admissions. These five people, in turn, commented about their particular areas of responsibility.

Speakers

Dean Junius A. Davis of the Graduate School: the program of this school, which endeavors to produce leaders and specialists, has been closely related through the years to the needs of teachers . . . 78 graduate degrees on the master's level, he announced, were to be awarded at this year's commencement . . . the first doctoral program will be initiated in the fall by the School of Home Economics.

Dean Naomi Albanese of the School of Home Economics: the Home Economics Foundation has offered continuing aid to the development of the school's program, especially in its emphasis on research . . . within the last year an Institute for Child and Family Development has been established; it is one of three such institutes in the country . . . a grant from the Ford Foundation has financed the planning for a parenthood planning workshop . . . enrollment in the school was up this year 40% over last year.

Dean Kenneth Howe of the School of Education: 67% of the Woman's College students are graduated with teacher certification . . . the school's concept is one of educating for teaching rather than training for teaching . . . with the renovation of the Curry School enrollment will be slightly enlarged and more carefully selected; the curriculum will emphasize a strong liberal arts program for college preparation . . . a block plan for student teaching will be inaugurated in the fall of 1961 . . . there is special interest in a trend toward a five-year program in teacher education which will include outdoor and recreation education.

Dean Lee Rigsby of the School of Music: during the year the school presented over 70 formal programs, 80 television shows, and many out-of-town performances . . . next year a new degree, bachelor of music in liturgical music, will be initiated; it is hoped, too, that a master's program in music education may be initiated . . . the school will endeavor in the future to increase its services to the general college, particularly for those in the field of education . . . excellence in teaching and in performance are of utmost importance in the school.

Director of Admissions Alice (Joyner) Orby '54: the College's admission policy is one of the quality control mechanisms of the University . . . three things about each applying student are taken into consideration in determining the probable academic promise of the applicant: (1) high school record (transcript), (2) letters of reference from the high school (usually from the principal and teachers), and (3) scholastic aptitude test scores . . . the College is selective to the point of not admitting a student who has a chance of less than one in ten of being able to do the work here . . . the attention given by alumnae to acquainting and encouraging outstanding high school students about the College is very valuable.

Alumnae Service Award I

Laura Weill Cone '10

Alumnae president Judy Barrett (left) presents the first Alumnae Service Award to Laura Weill Cone. The tray on which each recipient's name will be engraved will remain in the Alumnae Honse. An engraved miniature was given to Mrs. Cone for her keeping.

The Alumnae Service Award is to be presented to alumnae of the Woman's College who by their unselfish and faithful service have made outstanding contributions to the advancement of the College. The award is given in such years as a qualified nominee is presented. An Alumnae Service Award Committee, appointed by the president of the Alumnae Association, receives nominations and presents them to the Board of Trustees of the Association. The Board selects the award winners. The Committee prepares the citation which is presented when the recipient is announced. Cora (Stegall) Rice '45 of Raleigh was chairman of the first such committee.

ONOR graduate of this College, everlasting president of her class, author of The College Song, leader in the civic, cultural, religious, and business life in her community and state, devoted friend of education, and loyal benefactor of the Woman's College: LAURA WEILL CONE, Class of 1910, to you the first Alumnae Service Award is gratefully offered on the occasion of your class' fiftieth reunion.

Laura Weill Cone has demonstrated in full measure her devotion to the Woman's College and to the ideals the College hopes to achieve. She received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the College in 1942, and she has been made an honorary member of Golden Chain. She served as a valuable member of the Board of Trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina and its Executive Committee for more than twenty years. Her community has benefited in many ways from her creative leadership as exemplified in her service on civic and volunteer boards and councils. She gave loyal service as director of her local civilian defense volunteer office and has served on the governing bodies of the Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital, the Blowing Rock, North Carolina, Hospital, and Bennett College. Her generous gifts have enhanced the opportunities for service at this college, as exemplified by Elliott Hall, which was made possible through her gifts and those of her family.

In all these and many other avenues of devoted service, Laura Weill Cone has exhibited an orderly and distinguished mind, a genius for peace, a devotion to truth, and a courageous heart. In the words of Frank Porter Graham: "She stands for excellence without pretence and democracy without surrender."

Campus FACTS

TWO ALUMNAE, fifteen seniors, and a junior were elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa during the spring by the Woman's College chapter, Epsilon of North Carolina.

Alumnae receiving honorary election were Mary Teresa (Peacock) Douglas '23, an author and the library supervisor of the Raleigh schools, and Hermine (Warlick) Eichhorn '26, a composer, organist, and choirmaster of Greensboro.

Janice Powell of Yanceyville was elected from the junior class.

Seniors elected were Patricia Barbee (daughter of Irma Newman Barbee '21) of Bethel, Lelia Rose Evans of Youngsville, Faye Fuquay of Greensboro, Mary Ann Hancock of Charlotte, Martha Ann Helms of Marshville, Shirley Holton of Winston-Salem, Marian Dean Jones of Benson, Maria Lamprinakos of Asheville, Carol Marcus of Norfolk, Sandy Margolis of Williamston, Mary Ann McNeely of Greensboro, Mary Patricia Rose of Paducah, Ky., Carolyn Settle of Charlotte, Patricia Ann Stephenson of Smithfield, and Mary Moore Upchurch of Clinton.

Another senior, Sara Jane Toenes of Greensboro, was elected as a junior last year.

A Woman's College United Nations Seminar, with eight students and two members of the faculty in attendance, was held in New York at the United Nations during spring holidays. The seminar was a cooperative project of a course in International Organization, taught by Dr. Lenoir Wright (history), and a course in Ethics, taught by Dr. Warren Ashby (philosophy). The seminar's focus in keeping with the UN's current World Refugee Year emphasis, was on refugee problems.

Participants were briefed on the program and problems of the World Refugee Year by a representative from the UN High Commission for refugees. They met with a press attache of the Arab delegation to the UN and with a member of the Israeli delegation. They talked with a member of the Austrian delegation; with Dr. Rita Morgan, who had recently returned from refugee work in North Africa; and with Dr. Frank Graham, who is serving as UN mediator in the Pakistan-Indian conflict. The general plan of the seminar was to give the participants an overall view from both the political and humanitarian sides of the refugee situation.

PLANS are now in the offing for a new and expanded soda shop in Elliott Hall. The expansion is necessary to keep pace with the increased enrollment. Chances are that this change will not take place before the spring of 1961.

The proposed soda shop will be located on the ground floor of Elliott Hall in the space presently occupied by the lobby and former post office. In these quarters the soda shop will accommodate 160 people, which is about three times more than the present shop. Equipped with modern fountain and grill, the new shop will offer all the traditional soda shop menu, plus a plate lunch. The new facilities will offer quicker service, pleasant decor, and access to the patio for out-door smokers.

FACES

SERVING with president Emily Herring of Columbus, Georgia, as officers of the Student Government Association for the 1960-61 session are the following: vice-president Harriet Schnell of Pine Bluff, secretary Anne Chagaris (granddaughter of Maude Dickens Gaskins '09x) of New Bern, treasurer Catherine Moore of Greenville, judicial chairman Daphne Wingate of Charlotte, executive secretary of court of social regulations Carol Christopher of Baltimore, Md., executive secretary of honor court Becky Rhodes of Wilson, National Students Association coordinator Jill Game of Goldsboro, Elliott Hall president Ann Ross Abbey of Charlotte.

Chief marshal Maureen Turner of Decatur, Georgia, Inter-Faith president Hannar Abernathy Widder of Hickory, Recreation Association president Ann Pickel of Clemmons, college cheerleader Delores Grayson of Asheboro.

The Carolinian editor Lucy Stewart of Fair Haven, N. J., and Gwendolyn Neman of Charlotte and Heather Ross Miller of Badin, co-editors of The Coraddi.

F1GURES

ON Commencement Sunday, Chancellor Gordon Blackwell announced the establishment of the Burlington Industries Professorship in Textiles. An initial $25,000 donation by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Love of Greensboro, plus an additional continuing contribution of $2,000 yearly from the Burlington Industries Foundation, makes possible the creation of a distinguished professorship. Mr. Love is founder of Burlington Industries and is currently president and chairman of the board of the textile firm, which has its executive offices in Greensboro.

Dr. Blackwell stated that the donation to the Home Economics Foundation, Inc. is to be used to establish what is to be known as the Burlington Industries Professorship of Textiles. The gift from Mr. and Mrs. Love and the Burlington Industries Foundation may later be enlarged to extend its benefits.

The donors, expressing the desire "to establish one or more professorships in textiles," stated that it is their belief that "the educational strength in the Textile Division of the School of Home Economics . . . depends upon the development and retention depends upon the development and retention of a faculty composed of great scholars and great teachers."

Burlington Industries was a major donor to the Home Economics Foundation when it was incorporated in 1946.

FULBRIGHT Scholarships have been awarded to two members of the Class of 1960 who were graduated with majors in Romance Language. Sara Jane Toenes will study French language and literature at the University of Bordeaux, Faculte des Lettres. Faye Fuquay, a Spanish major, will study at the University of Barcelona. Both girls are residents of Greensboro. And both were Honors Students last year: Sara Jane worked with Dr. Philip Couch on a study of Andre Gide, and Fave worked with Dr. Virginia Farinholt on a Study of the Lapidario-Stone of Alfonso el Sabio.

WORK has begun on an $85,000 street project which will provide a new entrance to the campus. This entrance will be on West Market Street opposite Aberdeen Terrace and will be named Gray Drive. It will go through the campus to Walker Avenue and will be wide enough to permit two-way traffic. This also is a street-widening project. The present street runs from Walker and terminates at the infirmary. The project will provide badly needed parking space and two-way traffic through the campus. It will be needed even more with the opening of the new dormitories in the fall.

Not photographed: Mr. Taylor

TWO GIRLS who are now alumnae of the College, Mary Moore Upchurch '60 of Clinton and Jacqueline Long '59 of Rocky Mount, were among the winners of the 1960 Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation awards. Four other students received honorable mention and their names were sent to graduate schools throughout the country in anticipation that they will receive alternate awards: Mary Lynn Davis of Concord, Martha Ann Helms of Marshville, Marian Jones of Benson, and Patricia Ann Stephens of Smithfield.

THE COMMITTEE for naming school buildings of the Greensboro School Board has announced that the new Westridge Road elementary school now under construction will be named the P. P. Claxton School. Dr. Claxton, a native of Tennessee and for ten years U. S. Commissioner of Education, was a charter member of the Woman's College faculty, teaching pedagogics and German.

ENTERING FRESHMAN Anne Bradley Knight of Chapel Hill ranked first in competition for the Woman's College Chemistry Scholarship (valued at $200). The scholarship has been made available by an alumna of the College who is now a practicing chemist.

Betty Jane Gardner, a rising junior from Raleigh, has been selected as the first Woman's College student to participate in the Junior Year Abroad program. On the basis of her impressive academic record, she has been awarded a $500 scholarship for her study abroad. She will study in Paris as a member of the Sweet Briar group, and the work which she completes while abroad will be credited toward her Woman's College degree.

The group will sail from New York on September 1. Intensive language study will be done in Tours, France, between September 12 and October 22. (Betty Jane's four-year background in French is outstanding.) While in Tours and later in Paris, the members of the group will live with French families.

With her major in fine arts, Betty will take history and art courses through the University of Paris at the Ecole du Louvre and private lessons in painting and design at the Academic Andre Lhote. Her work will be closely supervised by professors-in-charge in Paris, and her progress will be reported to the Woman's College.

QUEENS COLLEGE in Charlotte at its commencement exercises awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities to Miss Mereb Mossman, dean of the Woman's College. The degree was voted by the Queens' faculty in recognition of her scholarship and educational leadership.

H. HOYT PRICE began his work as registrar of the College on July 1. A Tennessee native and a graduate of Cumberland University and George Peabody College, Mr. Price was assistant registrar at Florida State University prior to his acceptance of the Woman's College position.

Miss Draper

Miss Barton

Miss Arundel

Mr. Breisacher Miss Ingraham

SIX MEMBERS of the College faculty retired at the end of the last session. Three of them were department heads: Dr. Edna Arundel (geography), Dr. Helen Barton (mathematics), and Dr. Ernst Breisacher (German). The other three: Miss Helen Ingraham (biology), Miss Bernice Draper (history), and Mr. W. R. Taylor (English), have been members of the faculty for 37, 38, and 39 years respectively.

Dr. Arundel received her bachelor's degree from Columbia University. She was awarded a Ph.D. degree from Yale where she was an assistant and graduate student before she came to the Woman's College in 1937. She is a former president of the Greensboro branch of the American Association of University Women.

At Woman's College for 33 years, Dr. Barton previously taught at Goucher, Salem, Wellesley, Albion, and Alabama colleges. She is a Goucher graduate, and she received the master's and doctorate from Johns Hopkins. She has served as president of the Woman's College Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Breisacher was born and educated in Germany, getting both the master's and doctorate at the University of Strasbourg. Before coming to the Woman's College six years ago, he taught at Yale, Kenyon, Champlain, and Guilford colleges.

Miss Draper taught at Marvin College in Missouri before coming to the Woman's College. She received her degrees from Lawrence College (B.A.) and the University of Wisconsin (M.A.).

Miss Ingraham received her degrees from Knox College (B.S.) and the University of Chicago (M.A.). She taught in Illinois and was an assistant in biology at Bryn Mawr. She also has been president of the College chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Mr. Taylor is a University of North Carolina and Harvard graduate, and he taught at Alabama Polytechnic Institute before coming to the Woman's College. He organized the College drama program, and he has directed some 250 plays, including summer production in the Cape Cod area, in France and Germany, and at the Parkway Playhouse in Burnsville.

Campus FACTS continued

TWENTY-ONE students have a special bond in a very special lapel pin. They might well think of themselves as belonging to the Order of Chinqua-Penn. The girls served as guides at Chinqua-Penn Plantation near Reidsville in October when Mrs. Jefferson Penn presented the estate to the University. Mrs. Penn, deciding to do something special for the girls who "guided" so charmingly and well, had a custom-made gold pin in the form of a chinquapin fashioned for each of the girls. These she presented at a campus reception in April.

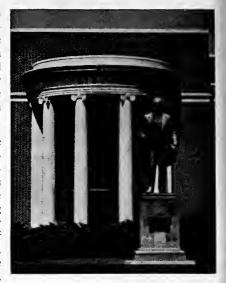

Crabapple trees will eventually replace the dying-out cherry trees along College Avenue, thanks to the Class of 1962. This past year's Sophomore Class accepted this part of the campus beautification plan as their project. Their check for financing the purchase of the trees was presented to the College on the April day when the first twenty trees were planted. Eighty more will be added along the avenue in the fall.

". . . since the spirit of Charles Duncan McIver pervades the entire campus, transcending any specific locality, the statue in his memory should be located at a focal point of the entire campus; and that since the court in front of the Library bears such relationship to the entire campus the statue should be moved, when necessary or possible, to such site."

This motion in 1957, made by the Trustees' Building Committee for Woman's College, paved the way for the relocation during the spring of Dr. McIver's statue. Since its unveiling in 1911, the statue had stood on the McIver Building lawn, facing Spring Garden Street; its new location is on the mall-area in front of the College Library. Problems of access, parking, drainage, and landscaping for the new McIver Building made the move, which situated the statue facing the Stone Building of Home Economics, necessary.

SARA TOENES of Greensboro, the Romance Language senior with the highest academic record, was the winner of the 1960 Winfield S. Barney Award. Grace Stoddard of Kennett Square, Pa., who is the daughter of Mildred (Howell) Stoddard '39 and who will be a freshman in the fall, has been declared winner of the Mary Eliza Spicer Scholarship (Romance Languages). Grace has also been awarded a National Merit Scholarship.

TO INCREASE its attention to the field of speech in the education of women, the College will expand the department of drama to a department of drama and speech in September. Speech courses will be transferred from the English department to the department of drama and speech.

A new and experimental speech testing program will be set up for all incoming freshmen in September as a part of the expansion plans. The test will provide an oral examination to be given to students during Freshman Orientation Week. Each student will read a prose selection while speaking extemporaneously with the examiner and will be checked on basic elements in good speech. Students with sub-standard speech will be so informed and a process of improvement will be recommended for them.

THE FIRST doctor of philosophy degree program at the Woman's College has been approved in the area of home economics. Progressive approval was given by the Graduate Council of the Consolidated University, the University Board of Trustees, and the State Board of Higher Education.

Mr. James Johnson Sweeney, director of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, will speak at the opening session of a forum on the Liberal Arts and the Individual which is being planned as a part of the dedication of the McIver Building. Mr. Sweeney's lecture is scheduled for the evening of October 4.

The actual dedication ceremony will be held on the following morning (the 5th: Founder's Day). It will be followed in the afternoon by three simultaneous panel discussions by members of the College faculty. Panel topics will be (1) Man and the Cosmos, (2) Man as Statistic, and (3) Traditional Values in Periods of Crisis. Departments which will be housed in the building will hold open house during the afternoon.

Dr. Howard Foster Lowry, president of the College of Wooster (Ohio), will give the McIver Lecture at the Founder's Day Convocation in the evening.

Alumnae and friends of the College are invited to attend all or any part of the October 4 and 5 celebration.

Old Guard

After a delectable luncheon served for us in the Alumnae House, the members of the Old Guard repaired to the Reference Room of the Walter Clinton Jackson Library for our annual meeting.

There were 24 members present.

Virginia (Brown) Douglas, this year's president, presided, and there was a short business meeting. May (Lovelace) Tomlinson was unanimously elected secretary for next year and president-elect for the following year.

Emma (Sharpe) Avery suggested that we vote our thanks to Misses Grogan and Penn for the lovely luncheon. That was passed unanimously.

Virginia Douglas then presented the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Charles M. Adams, Librarian of the Walter Clinton Jackson Library, who spoke to us on Book Collecting and Women. He showed us several interesting and rare books that he had been able to collect with the help of the alumnae. Miss Annie Petty, first librarian of the College, had given to him very recently a beautiful little book-not more than one inch square, bound in red leather: "Sayings of Abraham Lincoln". He had it protected by much tissue paper in a box. He asked us for any help we could give him in getting rare books for the Library. We all felt that we had had a very interesting and profitable address.

As there was no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Ethel (Harris) Kirby Secretary

OLD GUARD: First row (l. to r.): Carey (Ogburn) Jones '99, Emma (Sharpe) Avery '05, Florence Pannill '98, Mattie Williams '08, Virginia (Brown) Douglas '02. Second row: Mary Wills McCulloch '05, Lillie (Boney) Williams '98, Blanche (Harper) Moselev '96, May (Lovelace) Tomlinson '07, Lottie Eagle '99. "After fifty years nobody knows the place." But we did—seventeen of us out of the twenty-nine still living: Laura, Annie, Margaret, Willard, Marion, Mamie, Bessie, Elizabeth, Eleanor, Katie, Belle, Mellie (who came all the way from California), Winnie, Annie Lee, Alice, Jane, and Eunice. It was most regrettable that Eunice slipped on the campus shortly after she arrived and sprained her wrist so that she had to stay in the hospital instead of joining us. Some of us roomed in Laura Coit Hall, headquarters for our class, and held talkfests until an hour too late to be divulged; others waited at home to vote and came only on Alumnae Day.

That Day was memorable. First there was the meeting of the Alumnae Association when we were duly recognized and when we pridefully saw Laura honored with the Alumnae Service Award. President Julia Barrett, 1942, dispatched business with ease and saved time for Chancellor Blackwell and four new deans and the director of admissions to give an insight into the future of the College. Then followed the climax of the reunion, the beautiful luncheon which Laura gave at her home in Irving Park. There we were joined by Kate (Fleming) Brummitt, who had already stirred our memories by her articles in the Greensboro Daily News last fall. It was a heart-warming occasion. Pictures of children and grandchildren were shared, there was news about absent members (Edith Mason McLean, Mary Louise Weber, and Annette Munds Kenly had sent letters: Clyde called over the telephone), there was exchange of ideas about the contemporary scene, and expressions of appreciation appeared in both prose and poetry. But we did not sing-just why nobody thought to ask. Perhaps we knew instinctively that the Alma Mater would not sound from our uncertain voices as it had fifty years ago when Laura wrote it and we unblushingly gave it to the College. At any rate we waited until the Alumnae Supper and sang with some four hundred younger alumnae. It had been a day of renewed friendships, heightened loyalty to the College, and hope for the future.

Everlasting president Iris Holt McEwen was fittingly dressed to greet the members of the Class of 1914 who came for their 46th reunion: she chose a green dress and white shoes and carried a straw tote bag, laced with green ribbon, to which had been attached a white rose.

The banner for the wall area behind the luncheon table and the darling little fans which Ruth Gunter, who was Luncheon Hostess, made followed along in the green-and-white tradition, too. Ethic Garrett Heine,

After the luncheon which was served in Coleman Gymnasium, the twelve who were present (and who are identified in the reunion photograph) had a delightfully informal meeting. The letters and telegrams which had been received from those who were unable to come were read with appreciation. We talked about all of those absent and about ourselves.

Forty-six years have brought fame, fortune, happiness and sorrow to us. Twelve of our number have died, and several have lost their husbands.

There are two M.D.'s in our group: Pattie Groves and Annie Scott. (Annie spent years in China as a medical missionary.) Mary Green Matthews has published a book: Wheels of Faith and Courage, a history of the city of Thomasville. Most all have taught school; several have been school principals. Two are in public welfare work.

It would seem that all have been interested in some kind of civic work. "Service: would seem to have remained "Our Motto."

There has been much interesting and delightful traveling—in this country and in foreign countries. Lillian Reeves has been to Europe five times. Iris McEwen has been to the countries around the world and to Europe twice. From a discussion about children and grandchildren, these facts were gleaned: Bessie Craven Clinard has 5 daughters and 15 grandchildren; Ethie Heine has 1 son and 6 grandchildren; and Agnes Warren Stephens has 1 son and 5 grandchildren.

We send our love to those who could not join us, especially to two who are ill: Bessie Terry, a semi-invalid since she broke her hip in 1953, and Irene Robbins, who is in the hospital in Lenoir.

The class is very grateful to the Alumnae Office for the 1914 Booklet which was compiled from the information returned on the questionnaire . . . and that everyone could not come for the reunion!

Our Forty-fifth Reunion brought together twenty of our class for two days of joyous "togetherness". Friday evening we devoted to exchanging news of ourselves, looking at the pictures various ones had brought, and identifying remembered characteristics in the present mature versions of our 1915 selves.

Margaret Linker Wyatt made the arm bands which we proudly wore to the Alumnae meeting Saturday morning. Cora Belle Sloan Caldwell with the help of her son made the poster of our class ring with the decorative spray of red carnations which designated our table at the Alumnae luncheon.

Janie Stacey Gwynn and Cora Belle Sloan Caldwell prepared the Memorial Service for the nine of our fifty who have left us.

At the business meeting of our class, Edith Haight was promoted from Vice President to Everlasting President. Cora Belle Sloan Caldwell was elected First Vice President and Mary Wilson Wall, Second Vice President.

We are still trying to locate the whereabouts of Kate Bullard and Florence Hughes Voight. Can anyone help us? are given by the officers and members of the Class of 1916 to Claire Henley Atkisson and to Octavia Jordan Perry, who were responsible for the success and happiness of the 1960 reunion. Claire and Octavia shared the responsibilities of luncheon arrangements and official hostessing.

Outstanding among all of the decorations in Coleman Gymnasium where the '16ers joined the thirteen other reunioning groups for lunch were the violets which decorated the wall area behind the table bearing the "1916" banner. Octavia really "did herself and the class proud" in the making of those lavendar "beauties."

Since neither Annie Spainhour Walker nor Annie Beam Funderburk, everlasting officers of the class, could be present, the six who were present (identified in the reunion photograph) conducted the after-luncheon business informally. "A reliable report" as to what went on will be mailed to each member of the class before summer's end.

The Class of 1917 held its reunion following the Alumnae luncheon with six members present: Ann (Daniel) Boyd, May Meador, Annie (Pierson) Stratford, Frances (Howard) Cox, Minnie (Long) Ward, and Isabel (Bouldin) Edmunds.

Some interesting statistics were gleaned from those present, such as: the 5 married members reported they have 12 children and 27 grandchildren; while May Meador confessed to 45 grandnieces and nephews! May has just retired after 41 years of teaching.

CLASS OF 1916: seated (l. to. r.): Jeannette (Cox) St. Amand, Pauline (Williams) Koonce. Standing: Claire (Henley) Atkisson, Lorena (Kernodle) Stratford, Lucy (Hatch) Brooks, Octavia (Jordan) Perry, and Sadie (McBrayer) McCain.

Isabel Bouldin Edmunds has 3 married daughters, all of whom graduated from Woman's College. Two were present at Commencement this year.

years between"-study, children, interesting occupations, etc. Edythe Ellis Wyrick and her committee, with the help of the Alumnae Office, got out a fine booklet which brought half of us up to date and which many of you have seen and enjoyed. If there were space to list everybody who came back it would really make all of you wish you could have come. Christine Weeks Underwood and Jo Robinson Blackwood had decorated our table with the red and white colors and had made four posters of newspaper front pages carrying banner headlines such as "Dr. Jackson Succeeds Dr. Fonst", etc. They did a grand job. Alice Taylor Stanley was on hand to greet us as we came in. These gals had arrived in a priceless '29 Ford with slogans of "our times" painted on it and covered with red and white streamers. When they blew the horn, it was a riot! Miss Martus had an engagement which prevented her being there, and we missed very much seeing our Honorary Member. Betty Lou Garrett, our Mascot, who is now Mrs. Paul Kersey of Greensboro, came to lunch with us and brought her darling little girl, Diane, with her. Betty still had her red leather mascot's jacket and a photograph of herself in it. Diane put on the jacket and went around so each of us could talk to her. She is just the age her mother was and looks exactly like the picture. Betty was most gracious and charming, and we were delighted that she and Diane could join us. Mebane Holloman Burgwyn and Helen Dugan Allen helped us with a contest and prizes which everybody seemed to enjoy. It really was wall-to-wall and all the news was good!

CLASS OF 1935

About 30 members of the Class of 1942 were on hand for their 18th reunion in Coleman Gymnasium. Preliminary arrangements had been made by Doris Robbins Preyer, who attended to luncheon details, and Mary Eppes (Eppie) Turner, who was the official "greeter." The class could boast of, perhaps, the most unique guest in attendance during Commencement Weekend: Geoffrey Burns, not-even-walking-yet son of Marjorie Bryant Burns. (Marjorie and Geoffrey flew from the north for the reunion . . . it was Marjorie's first time back on the campus since 1942.)

Writes Sue Murchison Hayworth, who was on hand to function as Everlasting President: "... we met after lunch for a gab-fest. Had a grand time talking about everybody. Blanche Woollard Haggard had made some class directorics for us. I have a dozen left if anyone wants one. (Sue's address: Mrs. M. Samuel Hayworth, 1331 Sunset Avenue, Rocky Mount, N. C.) A marvelous time was had by all!"

The Class of '43 held its seventeenth reunion luncheon in Coleman Gymnasium on the campus. There were 60 enthusiastic members present, each anxious to talk of herself and anxious to hear from and about her classmates.

Jane (Thompson) Davis presided, and after welcoming the members, she recognized those responsible for various phases of the reunion: Ella Marie (Pinkston) Rodman and Anne (Spivey) Wimbish, who had made the luncheon arrangements; and Gladys (Sessoms) Elmore, who had been in charge of hostessing at the Alumnae House during registration.

Dr. Meta Helena Miller, our class chairman, was unable to attend the reunion luncheon. Dr. Miller sailed from New York this same day for a holiday in Europe. Jane Davis read a letter from Dr. Miller to the class, expressing her regrets at not being able to be with the class and bringing the class up to date on various changes that had taken place at the College in recent years.

One of the most delightful phases of the luncheon was hearing from each member present, who told a little about herself or anything she knew about a classmate who wasn't able to attend the reunion.

The luncheon and meeting were pleasant and happy, and seventeen years had in no way changed the warm feeling of interest and friendship these members felt for each other. The only sad note was the thought that we aren't able to be together more often.

The Sweet Sixteen reunion meeting of the class of 1944 was held in the lower regions of Coleman Gymnasium. All present descended filled with a picnic lunch enjoyed along with other reunited classes. Due to the alertness of our luncheon chairman, Janice Hooke Moore, our table was graced by faculty guests representing most departments of the college. Janice's zeal had, in fact, been reproached by classes left without guests, and she had responded by lending "Daddy" (Dr. Malcolm Hooke) to an adjacent class.

The tone of our meeting was set by the informal cordiality of our Everlasting President, Billie Upchurch Miller, who is the personification of her title. The forty-one members attending joined Betty Dorton Thomas in the class song. "Fight with all your might for the lavendar and white," was sung cheerfully, but no one could recall the verse about Sanford for governor.

Billie thanked Janice and her co-chairman, Jamie Fowler Sykes, for their work in preparation for the reunion and Dorothy Scott Darnell for producing the reunion booklet. The booklet not only stimulated interest in the reunion but also performed the service of putting far-scattered classmates in touch with each other again.

Our Secretary, Jean Dickey Kenlan, was unable to be present but was able to induce the special delivery service to deliver her illustrated greeting with uncanny timeliness. The many expressions of how keenly her absence was felt during the entire weekend are hereby noted for posterity.

Miss Florence Schaeffer and Mr. Gregory Ivy were presented by the Vice-President, Nancy Kirby West, who was unable to persuade them to speak. Kirby then presented Miss Largent, Everlasting Class Chairman, who knew she had to speak. Miss Largent touched on the campus days of the class and, as always, left members feeling no class has ever quite equalled it. It seems that Bobbie Roy as "Gua" still rates in college memories.

Class Treasurers, Claire McRoberts Bartlett and Doris McRoberts Piercy, read messages from some 44's unable to be present. These included Bonnie Angelo Levy, Betty Snider Wilkins, Dot Levis Munroe, and Buffy Clay Garlichs.

Prizes were presented to long-distance travelers to the meeting: Anne Butler Twitty from Homestead, Florida and Sarah Hopper Harvic from Fishkill, New York. Cornielle Caraway Sineath presented her own prizes: her three lovely daughters who had come up from Wilmington with her.

Chancellor Gordon Blackwell stopped with us for a few minutes so that we could get acquainted with him and ask him questions about the College. Mothers of daughters took special interest in the Chancellor's remarks on admission policies. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to individual reports from each member present. Careers, husbands, children, travels, and organizations were described. Two major trends among home-makers towards outside activities were "I do too much" and "I have learned how to say 'No'." Much consultation of the second group by the first was noted later.

Present for the meeting in addition to those mentioned were: Elizaheth King, Florence Caldwell Touchstone, Mary Lib Doggett Beaman, Margaret Johnson Bryan, Betsv King Lucke, Dorothy Madsen Leustig, Virginia Mayberry Elam, Barbara Ann Smith Hoover, Jean Bain Nance, Eugenia Cox Pratt, Charis Faulk Ilayes, Margaret McFarland Lingerfelt, Margaret Odom Carlough, Jean Stevenson Petrea, Jerry Wall Williams, Hal March Scheffler, Mildred Thorpe Draper, Mollie Bowie Marsh, Irma Siceloff Price, Anne Carter Freeze, Julia Pollock Plonk, Charlotte Jones Wagner, Betty Halligan Moebes, Ann Henning Moore, Betty Lou Howser Surratt, Nancy Ledbetter Dunlap, Armantine Dunlap Groshong, Carol Overcash Dudley, Carolyn Scarborough Shinn, Arline Steinacher, Helen Sullivan, Mary Agnes Cochran Ward, Jean Rickert Brawley, Laura Kincaid Ellis, Elizabeth Jordan Laney.

The reunion meeting of the Class of 1945 was called to order by Dianne Page Bench. Mary Frances Sutton Sinclair led the group in singing the class song, a venture which proved so surprisingly successful that she proceeded immediately to the College Song-also a rousing success. Dr. Lyda Gordon Shivers, our class chairman, was introduced next. It was a real pleasure to see her again and have her for luncheon guest. Dr. May Bush, Miss Inez Coldwell and Dr. Malcolin Hooke were other luncheon guests, but they were unable to attend the meeting afterward. (Dr. Hooke's pressing business was to rush home to eatch the Saturday baseball game on TV!) The committee members who worked so diligently to make our luncheon the success it was were recognized. Henriette Manget Neal, the general luncheon chairman, recognized Jan Cox Speas and Eleanor Dare Taylor Kennedy who had charge of table decorations. Martha Hipp Henson was head of the hostess committee.

About this time Judy Barrett, the Alumnae Association President, arrived with Chancellor Blackwell. It was a real pleasure to meet and chat with him the few minutes he was able to stay.

Next Dianne read the names of deceased members of the class, and this was followed by a moment of silent prayer. That list includes: Marjorie (Bason) Lean, who died in 1958; Marie (Belk) Lipton, in 1950; Dorothy Britt, in 1946; Evelyn "Piggie" (Butler) Phillips, in 1957; Helen (Hoover) De Maio, in 1957: Ann Page, in 1948; and Margaret (Potts) Purchase, in 1957.

The rest of the meeting was given over to "catching up" on each other, with each member standing and giving pertinent facts about herself and family—if any—over the last 15 years. There were 57 members of the class present, all looking remarkably well preserved and eager to meet again in five years—whether we have a reunion scheduled or not. It was a wonderful, wonderful getto-gether—we missed you who couldn't get back—but hope you'll make every effort to make the next one.

lN two instances the reunion photographic equipment went "haywire." Upon development, the photographs of the classes of 1945 and 1950 rendered 99% of those photographed unrecognizable. Two more reunion photographs are missing: 1917 and the 1959 Commercials. Both of these classes finished their meetings and were gone before the photographer could get to them. The editor and the photographer are very sorry about these four omissions.

CLASS OF 1955

The members of the Class of 1950 seemed to have a good time observing and talking about the changes which ten years had brought about in themselves and in the College. Despite the passing of the "fabulous fifties" decade, everyone was recognizable.

Grey Lilley Wood, as Luncheon Hostess, had taken care to get the '50 spot in Coleman Gymnasium, where lunch was served, appropriately decorated. On the bleachers, overlooking all the proceedings, sat "a dummy" which Grey had stuffed and dressed in a '50 class jacket and collegiate garb.

Joan Ferguson Hornaday buzzed about all weekend, fulfilling her duties as official "welcomer."

After lunch the 68 present trooped, with Everlasting President Nancy Porter in the lead, to the Modern Dance Studio, and from then to the end of the official reunion, the report is that "talk followed more talk" . . . about husbands, children, jobs, the absentees from the reunion. Reportedly, photographs of "off-springs" were in abundance.

Since the photograph of the reunioning group left everyone unrecognizable, the names of those who "were present and accounted for" are listed: Ramona (Austin) Wilson, Alice Boehret, Jean Fisher Hedrick, Hildur von Hammerstein Zorn, Margharetta Eldridge Beitzell, Nell Jones Clary, Alston Mc-Keithan Williams, Lee Mahan Evans, Connie Miller Sweeney, Melrose Moore Stocks, Allene Neal Self, Nancy Porter, Esther Samuelson, Jean Smith Treadway, Virginia Thompson Schenck, Jane Trogdon Reade, Elizabeth Westmoreland Payne, June Wilson Gailes, Joanne Brantley Craft, Louise Birchett Shelby, Martha Burke Spivey, Mildred Coble Collins, Betty Crawford Ervin, Joan Lee Ferguson Hornaday, Doris Lee Poole Fulton, Betty Anne Rader Martin, Alma Sabiston Peacock, Barbara Sanders Booth, Shirley Williams Moody, Betty Thomas Rawls, Robbie Best Leach, Sadie Rae Harrison Dew, Nurry Nixon Dodge, Barbara Sternberger Cone, Betty McNairy, Mary Russ Benson Cameron, Virginia Caldwell Coble, Nancy Greenlee, Martha Rose Miller McKnight, Naomi Woodworth Capp, Eleanor Skeels Snell, Helen Mamber Levin, Mary Mae Holmes, Sara Stacy McDonald, Peggy Coppola Jones, Claudia Ann Rogers, Ann Pender Snyder, June Elizabeth Chandler Patton, Virginia S. Ingram, Lillian Rosenberger Leonard, Virginia Lee Baughman Lawing, Marianna Newlin Person, Marilyn Moeller Simpson, Rebecca Blankenship Carter, Elizabeth Butler Martin, Barbara Fuller Owen, Ruby Rumley Paul, Jane Edmunds Stephenson, Rebecca Lloyd, Mary Elizabeth Hutchinson Astin, Betty Sanders Elizabeth Hutchinson Austin, Betty Sanders McFarland, Joyce Jefferson Gossett, Grey Lilly Wood, Naomi Marrus Marks, Betsy Newman Nagel, Jean C. Mitchell, Marie Harkey Allen, Mary Nance Blevins Tuttle.

Measles played something of a part in the reunion of the Class of 1955.

Everything had been gotten ready for the return-after-five years. Carolyn Earnhardt Oden had seen to it that the spot assigned to '55 in Coleman Gymnasium had been fittingly decorated. She had attached a clothes line on the wall behind the luncheon table, and on it she had pinned, among other memorabilia, a red '55 class jacket, an assortment of baby diapers and a mortarboard . . . items which definitely marked the passage of the '55ers' time. Carolyn Falls Grove had stationed herself in the Alumnae House "to offer the glad hand" to returnees.

Then the telegram came: "Sorry to miss the fun. Attendance canceled by Kathy's measles. (signed) Deanie Chatham Calway." Kathy's measles necessitated the '55ers' going ahead without the official direction of their Everlasting President, who had planned her trip from Alabama so painstakingly.

And "go ahead" the class did, regretting that Deanie couldn't be on hand, but rejoicing that each of them had been able to come. Gaye Stewart Wakefield, at the request of the Alumnae Office and completely unrehearsed, stepped into Deanie's place.

When the class congregated in Rosenthal Gymnasium for their after-luncheon meeting, much was the conversation, and many were the family pictures shown. Much had happened in the five intervening years, and everybody was interested in everybody else's business. Those of you who could not make the reunion were very much missed . . . and, rest assured, your business came in for its share of discussion, too.

Chapter-ly Speaking

The Class of 1959, although small in reunion-ing number, had a wonderful time at their first reunion. It seems that most of the members of the class who didn't walk down the aisle last June are doing it this June so planning weddings, caring for husbands, children, and jobs took precedence over reunion. Those who were present, however, caught us all up on details concerning those who were not there, and business was conducted in behalf of the entire class.

Alumnae Representative Julie Shore gave a report concerning contributions from members of our class to the Alumnae Fund. As Julie so wisely put it "the Woman's College seems to have prospered even without the Class of 1959, but we still need to do our share if they are to continue to prosper." Julie was referring to the construction of the new dormitory behind Weil-Winfield and the near completion of the new McIver building. All '59ers were impressed by the changes in the external appearances of the college which had been made during our year away and are prouder than ever to wear the Woman's College ring.

The class joined in a lively discussion concerning the dispensation of last year's class treasury which had been stipulated for the scholarship fund. President Peg Duncan called for a motion to turn over all of our class funds to the scholarship fund to be used to aid a worthy and needy student. This motion was made by Alice Wingate and agreed upon by the Class. Business was cut short as the class members wanted to use the time for visiting friends and renewing acquaintances.

The Class all met together for the Alumnae Luncheon and enjoyed the lovely work done by the Luncheon hostess, Jane Cheek, who had taken care of decorations and was in charge of all of the details concerning our luncheon together. The first reunion, from the time Terry Garrison greeted us at the door, through the enlightening meetings, until Margaret Martin finally said: "All's been said that can be said until we have our fifth," was a memorable one for all who attended. Plans are now in progress for informing all '59ers of the next reunion which will be held not only with our immediate class members but our sister class, the Class of '57. Start saving now and start planning now . . . its fuu for you and your family . . . and don't forget the ALUMNAE FUND. It needs you as the Woman's College needs you.

mercial Class of 1959 held its first Class Reunion after a delicious luncheon in Coleman Gymnasium with its Everlasting President, Ginny Hackett, presiding. Returning to their Alma Mater beside Ginny were Georgia Cranfill, Carol Horton, Helen Caldwell, Julia Paul, Bette Dermit, Elizabeth (Hodges) Johnson, Nancy (McDowell) Newton, Linda (Hall) Helms, Connie Griffin, Ann Cato, Betty Jordan, Joyce Byrd and Susan Stephenson. The girls were joined by their former teachers, Miss Mary Harrell, R. J. Allen and Ernest E. Miller. The class had a very enlightening time hearing about their former classmates' jobs, bosses and many of their husbands. Each girl told who she worked for, where, and some of her duties, which resulted in the fact that not all commercial students from Woman's College end up with secretarial or accounting positions. The jobs were varied, and none sounded a bit dull or boring. Although a lot was learned during their one year of college, the girls found out that much more was learned during one year of working.

Before closing the meeting, the Class decided to have another reunion in five years, with the hopes that more of the girls would attend after they were a little more settled in their jobs and married lives. A year of college, a year of working, and a class reunion helped each girl to realize how much she had to be thankful for, being an Alumna of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

Susan Stephenson Everlasting Secretary

group of Alamance County alumnae met on April 20 to play bridge and to talk about reactivating their chapter which has been inactive for several years. A steering committee was formed, and plans for a fall dinner meeting were discussed. Then on June 14 the group met again; Clyde (Norcom) Iseley '33 presided; this time, action was forthcoming; The nominating committee's slate was accepted by acclimation: chairman Caroline Veno, vice-chairman Merle (Sutton) Sharpe '59, and secretary-treasurer Barbara (Mangum) Bowland '51. October 11 was set as the date for the fall meeting, and it was announced that Chancellor Gordon Blackwell will be the guest. 1960 graduates, who will be honored at the meeting, will serve together as the hospitality committee. Plans were made for a tea in the fall to honor the girls who will enroll at the College. The group decided to increase the amount of their already-existing chapter loan fund which is administered by the College and is used by students from the county.

Franda (Dobson) Pedlow '55 spearheaded the revival meeting of the Boston, Massachusetts chapter of the Window Shop Restaurant on April 12. "A great deal of chatting about things past and present at the College made everyone feel at home." Plans were made to accept the invitation of Antoinette (Loetsch) Mock '24 to meet in her home in Wellesley Hills during July. An added attraction to Antoinette's invitation is a backyard swimming pool!

Dr. Kenneth Howe, dean of the School of Education, talked with the members of the Buncombe County chapter about "New Dimensions in Education" at their luncheon at the Battery Park in Asheville on March 19. During the business session Betty Bullard '52 was elected to serve as the new chairman, and Helen (Lichtenfels) Gumpert '33, Patricia Blackburn '59, and Ruth Whitson '46 are serving with her as vice-chairman, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

on July the first

On March 18 Chancellor and Mrs. Blackwell met with the Burke County alumnae and their husbands in the Morganton Community House. While the group was assembled, new officers were elected: Eleanor Butler '57, chairman; Betty Lou (Mitchell) Guigou '51, vice-chairman; and Margaret (Pierce) Stroupe '28, secretary-treasurer.

Inez (Shuford) Starnes '39 was elected chairman of the Catawba County chapter to succeed Ellen (Shuford) Biggs '52 when chapter activity was resumed after several "dormant" years at a dinner-meeting in the First Methodist Church in Hickory on March 17. Chancellor Blackwell and Alumnae Secretary Barbara Parrish met with the group which elected Imogene (Cashion) Pritchard '41 to serve with Inez as vice-chairman; Alice (Miller) Watts '55, as secretary; and Elaine (Solomon) Zerden '48, as treasurer. The parents of students presently enrolled at the College were invited to join the group as "dutch" guests.

The Columbia, South Carolina chapter is due two reports. In the first place, 140 people attended the chapter's annual benefit bridge party, held this year on February 11 at the ESSO Community Center. Fourteen door prizes, donated by members, were given away during the evening; four home-made cakes were raffled off; four members served as models for a preview showing of spring hats; refreshments were made by the members and served buffet style. A good time was had by all; the chapter's scholarship fund was richer by $110. Then, in May, Dr. Eugenia Hunter of the School of Education met with the chapter at a dinner meeting at Russell House on the University of South Carolina campus. During the meeting officers were elected. Thus far, the only for-sure one known about by the Alumnae Office is Kathryn (Oliver) Floyd '53, who was elected chairman.

No official word has been received as yet, but the unofficial report is that sometime during the spring Toaksie (Tucker) Maloney '57 was elected to succeed Ethel (Fleishman) Vatz '31C as chairman of the Cumberland County chapter.

The Greater Washington chapter is once again a reality! The revival movement began on March 11 when some thirty alumnae gathered in Washington for dinner at the Water Gate Inn. Names were signed to verify interest; Lu (Stephenson) Bloch '57 kept the list and kept the ball rolling. Eleven of "the interested" met on April 21: they talked about a business-like basis for future activity and did preliminary planning for a meeting on May 24. On that date in the evening in the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Room of the Old House of Representatives Building, some fifty alumnae met, and the chapter "was off again and running." Nine of the eleven "steerers" were on hand: Lu chaired the meeting; Anne (Buie) Butler '56 served as secretary; Pat (Bivens) Darcey '56 and Fran (Walden) Jacobs '56 were in charge of the coffee-and-cookie end of things; and Thelma (Thompson) Miller '54, Nancy (Harper) Morris '59, Pat Shore '58, Sue (Fleming) Alem '55, and Julie Shore '59 stood by to assist whatever needed. The group adopted a constitution which specifies regular meetings every second month from September through May and which authorizes an executive committee with a representative from each of the component areas (D. C., Virginia, and Maryland) as the governing body. Lu was made temporary chairman, and Ruth (Kernodle) McDonald '17 and Mary Alice (Vann) Fox '44 were selected as chapter advisers. A June 29 meeting was set for the steering committee at which time plans for the September meeting and nominations for a permanent Executive Committe will be made.

Three days after spring officially arrived, the members of the Durham County chapter gathered at Mary (Harris) Clayton's home for a Spring Party: no speaker or guests, just a good-time, get-acquainted party. Chairman Jane (Sarsfield) Shoaf '52 directed miscellaneous games which were appropriately based on alumnae knowledge of the College. Plans were tentatively made for a Founder's Day Birthday Party on October 5th at Duke Power Company in Durham. . . the program: Woman's College via television. Then, during April, the chapter sponsored another round of parties for prospective and currently enrolled students. Mary Clayton again lent her home for the Northern High School girls, and Jane Shoaf, hers for the Durham High School girls. Elizabeth Clay '38 engineered an after-school gathering of the Southern High School "prospects." The composite report: many questions by the high schoolers, and many answers by the currently enrolled. Mr. A. C. Hall, professor emeritus of English, was the guest of the Forsyth County alumnae at their spring luncheon meeting on May 21 at the Woman's Club. He talked with his audience, who were seated at tables decorated in the yellow-and-white of daisies and gladioli, about "Grave Humor:" unusual epitaphs which he has collected for many years. At officer-election time Marylynn (Roberson) Coghill '51 was elected to serve another term as chairman, and these were chosen to serve with her: Mary Sandra Schulken '58, vice-chairman; Annie Preston (Heilig) Fearrington '20, secretary; and Frances (Leatherwood) Adams '52, treasurer.

More than $300 was cleared by the Greensboro chapter on its 1959-60 Scholarship-Lecture Series. Beginning in December and continuing into January and February, the series featured Dr. Richard Current (history), Dr. Kenneth Howe (education), and panelists: Miss Elizabeth Hathaway (home economics), Mr. Walter Moran (art), and Mr. Edward Loewenstein (art). New officers for the chapter were elected by mailed ballot in early June: Margaret (Johnson) Watson '48, chairman; Mary Elizabeth (Sampson) Irvin '53, first vice-chairman; Sue (Baxter) Leonard '53, second vice-chairman; and Julia Ann (Doggett) Laughlin '53, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Louise Alexander, professor emeritus of political science, was assuredly an appropriately chosen speaker for the High Point-Jamestown chapter meeting on May 11 at the High Point Friends Church. Her topic in this election year: POLITICS. The chapter members did a bit of electing, too: Miriam (Wilson) Bollinger '47 was selected to serve for two years as vice-chairman, and Miriam (Skinner) Erath '52, for a similar term as treasurer.

Several meeting reports are in order for the Jacksonville, Florida chapter. After a year and a half of inactivity, "business" has picked up. At a meeting on December 16 in the Camellia Room of the Roosevelt Hotel, vicechairman Carolyn (Wheatley) Davidson '42 appointed a nominating committee. On January 28 the group met again to hear and to accept unanimously this committee's report: chairman Doris (Braswell) Sweetland '46, vicechairman Betty Jane (Sarratt) Cowan '46, secretary Mary (Scott) Haley '37C, and treasurer Sara Ann Williams '50. The fourth Tuesday in April was set for the next quarterly meeting date; Carolyn Davidson invited the group to her home; Dorothy (Blaney) Robinson '46 talked with the fourteen members present about her work in connection with adoptions. She has been with the Child Welfare Division of Florida for three years. Although her remarks were informative and quite serious, she also brought in the humorous aspects, as well, and she urged that her hearers encourage anyone in their acquaintance contemplating an adoption to go through the proper channels. Plans were made by the group for a summer luncheon meeting at noon on July 21 in the Jean Ribault Room (overlooking the St. Johns River) in Sears. The program attraction will be a preview fall fashion showing of suits, coats, furs, and the like.

The Jacksonville alumnae are very interested in contacting any alumnae who are being transferred by the Atlantic Coast Line from Wilmington to Jacksonville. The person to call? Chairman: Mrs. Guy Sweetland (Doris), 145-35th Street, South, Jacksonville Beach (CH 9-4788).

During February while Katherine (White) Raiford, the College's field representative, was working in their area, the members of the Martin and Washington Counties chapters staged a joint dinner-meeting at the Roanoke Country Club in Williamston.

Something new was done by the Martin County chapter at their meeting following the February 4 joint dinner-meeting with the Washington County folks. They elected cochairmen: Patsy (Blalock) Ward '54 and Elizabeth (Griffin) Green '55, both of Roberson-ville. Following their election, they planned for April 15 (during Spring Holidays) a coke party for the currently enrolled and prospective students form the county. A first-hand report indicated that all went VERY well.

New Hanover County alumnae joined their Carolina and State College "brothers" for a Greater University dinner-meeting on May 19 at the Cape Fear Country Club in Wilmington. Chapter chairman Betty Hill '53 and Janet (Weil) Bluethenthal '12 represented Woman's College on the local arrangements committee. The presence of the three chancellors of the University branches (Aycock, Blackwell, Caldwell) added to the consolidarity of the occasion. The New Hanover alumnae thoughtfully invited their "sisters" from Duplin, Pender, Onslow, Bladen, and Brunswick counties to join them for the dinner.

Mary Belle (Price) Coupe '45 invited the alumnae in the upper-part of New York State and their husbands to her home in Syracuse on Sunday afternoon, May 22, for a covered-dish, picnic-style luncheon. Laura (Whisnant) VanNortwick '35x entertained the group by reviewing the biography of Dr. Charles Duncan Melver. Then while the wives conducted their chapter business, the husbands were taken on a tour of Syracuse University by chapter chairman Juanita (McDougald) Melchior's husband. Plans were made for, perhaps, a state-wide Melver celebration among the alumnae on the October Saturday preceding Founder's Day.

The Randolph County alumnae met for after-dinner dessert and bridge on May 20 at Annie (Moring) Alexander's home in Asheboro. They financed this first-time-tried affair by charging one dollar: fifty cents for dues and a similar amount for party expenses.

The report of the Scotland County chapter meeting in the January issue did not include a list of the group's new officers. They are chairman: Mildred (Howard) Williams '41, and secretary-treasurer: Virginia (Livingston) Muse '39; members of the executive committee: Lottie Mae (Julian) Buie '25x of Wagram, Naomi Gibson '36 of Gibson, and Susan (Steele) Woodard '26 of Laurel Hill.

A report on a college year to be spent in France and a report on a part of a year already spent in Burma were the highlights of the spring meeting of the Wake County chapter on May 18. Betty Jane Gardner, holder of the chapter's scholarship and the first Woman's College student selected to spend her junior year abroad, told the more-than-50 chapter members who assembled in the Grill Room of the State College Cafeteria about her plans for studying art in Paris next year. Mr. Bobby Smith, a member of the State College staff, gave an illustrated talk about his experiences as an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Burma. During the business portion of the meeting Helen (Parker) Kilman '41 was elected to succeed Lois Frazier '42 as second vice-chairman, and Patsv Haywood '53 was elected to succeed Elizabeth (Jones) Cease '47 as secretary.

In October, when the Washington County chapter met for its Founder's Day observance, plans were tentatively made for a spring meeting in April. A report has been received that the group met jointly with the Martin County chapter in February, but the proceedings of the April meeting have not reached the Alumnae Office as yet.

When the Green Room of the Hotel Du Pont was chosen for the meeting-place of the Wilmington, Deleware chapter, the crowd was underestimated. On January 28, eighteen alumnae appeared (there would have been 21 if three others hadn't had illness in the family at the last minute) . . . more than had usually put in appearance at the chapter's annual meetings. Cramped though the quarters were, the group, chaired by Gaye (Stewart) Wakefield '55, had a very enjoyable time being together . . . and feasting on "the impressive buffet spread of food."

Prospectives

MARY (SWETT) BARNEY '35 is interested in knowing of chapter interest in the Baltimore, Maryland area. In fact, she will probably be in touch with some of her alumnae neighbors during the summer, soliciting support for a dinner meeting in the fall. Baltimore-ites, contact her: Mrs. Marshal Barney, 2 Cedar Avenue, Towson.

All that Janie (Smith) Archer '52 lacks in her plan to initiate an alumnae chapter in Greene County is word from the Alumnae Office. This has been too long in coming, but in the fall chances are very good that an organizing meeting will be announced to the county's alumnae residents.

The gatherings in Hampton, Virginia during Spring Holidays were never referred to as chapter meetings, but they seem to be likely spring-boards for a chapter organization . . . and so, the reports of them are hopefully printed here. The precipitating reason for the gatherings of the alumnae in the Hampton area was the visit of Dr. Helen Barton, who retired at the end of the session as head of the mathematics department, and her successor, Dr. Anne Lewis, to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration laboratories at Langley Field. The fifteen alumnae who are employed in the NASA laboratories and Drs. Barton and Lewis were guests at a special luncheon in the Field cafeteria during the day of inspection. And in the evening a dozen other alumnae who live in the area joined the 15 NASA-ers in arranging a dinner party at the home of Gladys (Storey) Martz '47 in Yorktown to honor the College visitors

Helen (Russell) Caines '55 reports that she and Carolyn (Phillips) Kingdon '49x "are going to make an effort to get an alumnae chapter started" in Kingsport, Tennessee. Alumnae in that area who are interested should let their interest be known. Helen is Mrs. James F. Caines at 2512 Sanford Drive; Carolyn is Mrs. William R. Kingdon at Preseon Woods, Route 8.

Dottie (Lee) Schaeffer '57 has done a bit of contacting and plans "to really get something going this summer" in the area of Pennsylvania around Kutztown, where she lives. Her aim is for a chapter organization; you who live within driving distance, let her hear from you. She's Mrs. Forrest S. Schaeffer, Jr., 428 West Main Street in Kutztown.

–Air-Minded '00ers––

Mittie (Lewis) Barrier reports the following information from the 60th reunion gathering of the class: "The Class of 1900 has taken to the air. Emma Lewis (Speight) Morris flew to California this spring; Lizzie (Howell) Clifton) has flown to California more than once; 1 have flown across the Atlantic for three years in succession. If other members of the Class have become air-minded, they have not let us know.

The Class of 1918 has lost two members since the first of the year: Pauline Benton and Louise Black.

Pauline, who had taught history at John Marshall High School in Richmond, Virginia, since 1924, died on February 28th of a heart attack. Her two sisters went to Richmond when she was hospitalized and were with her when she passed away.

A faculty colleague said that Pauline was especially good with difficult pupils. When the announcement of her death was made in one of those classes, some of the boys wept unashamedly. A short period of silence was held throughout the school in her memory.

Louise Black died in Fayetteville on April 23 after a long illness. In February, she was honored by the Woman's Club of that city and was awarded the "Teachers' Oscar of the Year." A valuable citizen and an asset to the schools and the city, Louise was selected for his honor by the secret ballot of a committee of representatives from various civic organizations.

Both Louise and Pauline were dedicated teachers whose influence for good was deeply felt by all their students.

Our Class extends sympathy to their families.

News Notes

Next reunion in 1961

Florence Pannill, who has found painting a private retirement pleasure, returned to teaching this past year. But not elementary pupils as former students were. She taught painting to women at the Presbyterian Home in Greensboro. The hostess at the Home said the art lessons "put new life into the pupils, all of whom want Miss Pannill to resume the classes in the fall."

Next reunion in 1961

Miriam McFadyen has just completed a "wonderfully successfull" two-year term as Regent of the Guilford Battle Chapter of the DAR in Greensboro. Under her leadership the group won many state prizes and even national recognition.

Mary Fitzgerald's friends are glad to know that she has recovered from a recent illness. She is able to be out again and was present for the Annual meeting of the Alumnae Association at commencement.

Next reunion in 1961

Beatrice (Harrell) Pierce, class of '09, and her husband of Sunbury, joined their son, Dr. L. Harrell Pierce and Mrs. Pierce for a two-week plane trip through the British Isles. Dr. Pierce attended a medical meeting in Dublin, Ireland.

Rose (Batterham) Houskeeper, Route 3, Newton, N. J., plans to attend the 50th reunion of her class in 1961. "After my son and daughter were married I've had more time for writing and have also been doing some lecturing and flower show judging around the Eastern Seaboard. The days are never long enough!" Rose plans to attend a meeting of the Garden Club of America which will be held in Hawaii next spring.

Minnie Littman, 127 Maple Street, New Bedford, Mass., continues her column in the New Bedford Standard, where until her recent retirement she held a very interesting position as an editor, doing outstanding work. Minnie plans to join Rose (Batterham) Houskeeper for a trip to the College next commencement.

Next reunion in 1964

Dr. Pattie J. Groves, resident physician and Professor of Hygiene at Mount Ilolyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., retired in June.

Helen Jones is retired and lives at 1303 Spring Garden Street, Greensboro.

An article appearing in the Durham Herald recently had this to say about Louise Jones when she retired following 46 years of teaching. "She's a soft smile, a loving pair of hands, a devoted part-time mother, disciplinarian and friend to youngsters. Morchead School will never be the same without her." She makes her home at 103 S. Duke Street in Durham.

Sarah (Shuford) Geddy's address is 319 Palen Avenue, Warwick Branch, Newport News, Va.

Nola (Wagstaff) Highsmith is no longer among the "lost" members of her class. Her address is 302 Monticello Drive, Durham.

Gladys (Avery) Tillett, who has held Democratic Party offices from the precinct level to the national committee, in February became the first woman to serve on the State Board of Elections. Governor Luther Hodges appointed her to fill the unexpired term of a member who resigned to run for public office. Gladys, who delivered the keynote address for women at the party's 1944 national convention and who is credited with organizing the women's vote during World War II, will serve in the elections post until May 1, 1961.

Next reunion in 1966
Elizabeth (Craddock) Westerfield lives at 1707 San Cristobal Road, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Next reunion in 1967
Lillian Morris retired a year ago and is enjoying her "small brick colonial home" at 117 Brookwood Avenue, Wilmington.

Thelma Mallard retired at the close of the school year, following 35 years teaching home economics, biology and psychology at Columbia High School in South Carolina. Thelma received her master's degree in education from the University of South Carolina. She also studied at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn.; University of Tennessee, and Teachers College of Columbia University in New York. She taught for 8 years in North Carolina before joining the Columbia school system.

Sue Ramsey (Johnston) Ferguson's Taylorsville Girl Scout Troop Camp, now in its 12th consecutive season, is a unique institution in many ways, according to a June 15 article in the Greensboro Daily News.

Begun in 1948 as a day camp, it has been a "tenting out" camp for four years. This season, the members of the troop, whose ages average 12 years, camped out among the trees in the apple orchard on the pond on Sue Ramsey's country estate, Liledoun. During the years the camp has been something of a Ferguson family affair: son Iim has served as general camp assistant, administered first aid, and demonstrated how "to do" the many things which have to be done at a camp; daughter Laura (who this summer is touring Europe) has taught riding. The fee for a week's camping is one dollar per girl. This, in addition to what the girls have made by selling cookies and other projects and food donated by local grocers and townsfolk, covers the entire cost of the camp. Community cooperation is very important to the success of the camp undertaking: water, brought regularly from a spring, and the swimming pond are inspected without charge by the local health department; local doctors give free pre-camp examinations to the campers; the Alexander County hospital stands by on a volunteer basis to care for any easualties.

June 1st was Carrie Phillips Day at Brooks School in Greensboro. The day ended with a program by the Parent-Teacher Association. Miss Phillips has taught for 45 years and for the past ten years has served as principal of Brooks School. She received her master's degree from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and studied at Columbia University, New York University and Woman's College. She has not announced her plans for retirement, but those who know her know that she will find plenty to do.

Next reunion in 1964 Annie Lee (Stafford) Greenfield of Kernersville is involved in being the "mother of the bride-to-be"—. Her daughter, Sallie, graduate of Agnes Scott College, will marry Peter Wilson Blum on August 13. AN ALUMNA would like to secure an Aletheian Society pin. Anyone who has such a pin and wishes to sell it should communicate with the Alumnae Office. Please indicate the price which you would like to receive.

Next reunion in 1964 Juanita (Kesler) Henry, Salisbury, erved as state chairman of the North Carolina Federation of Woman's Club Scholarship Committee this year. Sixteen girls who were district winners met at Woman's College for their final review.

Next reunion in 1963 - Hortense (Moseley) Torian of Hendersonville is the proud grandmother of Ernest George Crone, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Crone (Jessie Wooten '47).

Mary Sue (Weaver) Allison received many honors when she retired from the Lindley Elementary School faculty in Greensboro, following 22½ years as teacher there. One organization to benefit from Mary Sue's "leisure time" will be the O. Henry Study Club. She was elected to serve as president of the group for the coming year.

Next reunion in 1963 Dr. John Irvin, son of Pearl (Taylor) Irvin, of Greensboro, was honored when he graduated from the Dental School of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. He was one of two students from the Dental School presented with an Omicron Kappa Upsilon key and also received the Psi Omega Dental Fraternity Award. Both are given on the basis of scholarship. Bringing added joy to the Irvins was the arrival of a daughter, Dorothy Ann, born to John and his wife on June 25, in Chapel Hill.

The Skyland Post of which Stella (Williams) Anderson is editor and publisher was awarded a bronze plaque for distinguished service to agriculture at the 75th convention of the National Editorial Association. The paper was judged as first place among all of the larger non-daily papers in the country with circulation from 3,000 to 6,000. Commented the judges: "The Skyland Post contains excellent coverage of local, state, and national news developments of agricultural interest. Well illustrated farm and home features are also used. Thoughtful editorials deal with agricultural problems and possible solutions." This is the third time the Post has received an award in this field, and it was the 24th national and state award and citation the paper has received in the past ten years.

Stella (Williams) Anderson of West Jefferson, long prominent in the work of state and national Federation of Women's Clubs, intalled new members of the O. Henry Woman's Club in Greensboro the last of May. Stella has just been named a trustee for the North Carolina State Federation.

Next reunion in 1963 Dr. Ruth Campbell teaches Spanish at Furman University, Greenville, Marita (Frye) Carrithers, who teaches in an American Dependent School in the Orient, is enjoying a visit to her home in Hickory.

Elizabeth Simkins, director of the library at Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., was recently named President of the college and research division of the Maryland Library Association. Elizabeth holds advanced degrees in library science from Columbia University and the University of Michigan.

Annie Lee Yates' address is 351 W. Chatham Street, Carv.

Next reunion in 1962 Margaret Clover, daughter of Margaret (Thornton) Clover, was married to Ens. Edward G. Broenniman, II, in March. The bride received her early schooling in Madrid, Spain, and Hamburg, Germany. She received a degree from Wheaton College and is working as private secretary to a member of the faculty of the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration. Ensign Broenniman was graduated from Yale University.

Dr. Polly Duffy was among nine Greensboro persons listed in the 31st edition of 'Who's Who in America.'

Mozelle (Jackson) Underwood received her Master's Degree in Elementary Education from Woman's College in May. Mozelle lives in Greensboro.

Thettis (Smith) Hoffner was among the twelve members accepted for membership in March into the Gamma Chapter of Alpha Delta Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa. The new members were honored at a tea in Elliott Hall on the Woman's College Campus.

Next reunion in 1962

Mildred (Little) Hendrix, organist of Duke Chapel, Durham, was in Cooperstown, N. Y. in May for the wedding of her daughter Muriel to Henry Carl von Wodtke. Muriel was graduated from Duke and has been doing graduate work in English and philosophy at Columbia University. Mr. von Wodtke is a graduate of Hamilton College and in the fall will enter his final year in the Columbia University Law School.

Ellen (Stone) Scott's son, Arthur, Jr., has been promoted to first lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Lt. Scott is stationed with the Army Engineers in Heidleberg, Germany. "In addition to his regular work, he has coached football and basketball with teams that won consistently both games and loving cups. He has personally won two loving cups playing golf. He will complete his military service in August and will probably resume his duties in Los Angeles with the Designing Department of the California Highway Commission." Ellen's daughter, Leona (Scott) Finch '52 continues to live in Greenville where her husband teaches at East Carolina College. Leona and her husband and two daughters are spending their fourth summer at the Colorado State Teachers College, where husband Alton is working toward his Doctor of Education degree.

A new song composed by Hermene (Warliek) Eichhorn was introduced by Miss Shirley Winston, soprano, member of the Woman's College School of Music, when she sang for the Historical Book Club of North Carolina in May. "So Let Me Live" is the title of the song. The Woman's College Choir's spring concert included the anthem "Faithful Cross" which was written by Hermene.

Next reunion in 1961

Edith Clark, librarian of the Rowan County Public Library, Salisbury, received the DAR Community Award Plaque for outstanding cultural and civic contributions.

Frances (Hamilton) McGeachy, Com. '30, of Statesville, was a candidate for North Carolina's 1960 Mother of the Year.

Ruth Sikes, Greensboro, was given membership in Gamma Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, in March.

Grace (Wolcott) Kouns was recently chosen as Asheville's Woman of the Week. Grace did graduate work in bacteriology at Post Graduate Medical School in New York, and later worked in the Diagnostic Department of the State Laboratory of Hygiene in Raleigh. When her first husband, Ralph McLean, died in 1951, she took over and operated the Asheville Livestock Yard. She is on the board of directors of the N. C. Livestock Auction Association and on the membership committee of the national group. She has been serving as president of the Asheville Garden Club and the Vetust Study Club. Formerly she was recording secretary and first vice president of the N. C. Garden Club. She has two step-daughters, Nancy 13 and Susanna 16. Mr. Kouns operates the Carolinian Tourist Court in Asheville.

Gertrude Gay (Carson) Hutchins, class of '31, became a member of Greensboro's Gamma Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, sorority for women educators.

Myrtis (Harris) Gooch's daughter, Linda, will be entering the Woman's College in the fall. We hope to see Myrtis more often. They live in Stem.

Evelyn (Rives) Terrell teaches in Elon College.

Jane (Wharton) Sockwell is the new president of the Friday Afternoon Club in Greensboro.

Eva (Woosley) Warren, formerly educational director in nursing at Watts Hospital, Durham, is the new dean of East Carolina College's School of Nursing. Eva studied at Jefferson Medical College Hospital School in Philadelphia, and earned the master's degree in education at Duke University. She has also done graduate work at Duke and Teachers College, Columbia University. Her husband operates a farm near Hillsboro. The Warren's son, Gordon, Jr., is a student at State College, Raleigh.

---Modern Mathematicians---

FOUR of the twenty classes in "modern" mathematics which were taught in the high school in six North Carolina cities during the past school year were taught by alumnae: Estelle (Shaw) Winchester '32 (ninth grade algebra in Asheboro), Ethel Whitley '40 (tenth grade geometry in Charlotte), and Barbara Woolard '54 (eleventh grade algebra in Raleigh). Text material prepared by the School Mathematics Study Group, under the sponsorship of the National Science Foundation, was used in these classes.

Next reunion in 1961

Smoke Signals, student literary publication at Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla., where Nellie-Bond Dickinson is chairman of the Dance Division, Department of physical Education and Recreation, carried a feature story on her recently. Nellie-Bond will soon begin her 25th year at FSU.

Sue (Horner) Sample, during March, received the National Photographic Award, one of the most coveted awards available to professional photographers and the highest award received by any North Carolina photographer for the past year. She is the third North Carolinian ever to have received this honor, conferred by the Professional Photographers Association of America on individuals who have made an outstanding contribution to professional photography at the national level. Sue was recognized because of her efforts to improve the quality and standards of professional photography. (Three years ago she suggested that extension courses of the famous Winona School of Photography in Indiana be made available in other qualified places in the United States. The necessary and involved arrangements were worked out, and her suggestion is now a reality.) She was further honored at the convention by having several of her portraits selected for exhibit (selection was made by a panel of national judges who grade each print on an established merit scale). Less than four years ago, when she had gotten all of her four children in school, Sue searched around for something to do which would allow her to work at home; she "hit" upon photography. Her studio is in her home in Statesville, and her work is mostly in portraiture.

Linda Rankin, history teacher at Page High School in Greensboro, has been selected to attend the Youth Reading Workshop at Syracuse University the last of July. The workshop seminar is designed to acquaint teachers with ideas of how to use a newspaper as an educational tool in their classrooms. Linda will be sponsored by the Greensboro Daily News.

Kate (Tucker) Allmond qualifies to rank among the "loyal alumnae." She has three daughters. The oldest, Ann (Allmond) Smith '56, works in the News Bureau at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and is the mother of Kathryn Eileen Smith, "future candidate for W. C." Kate's second daughter, Kathryn, is a rising sophomore at Woman's College. Margaret, the youngest, has four years of high school "before she plans to enter W. C." Kate teaches at the Thomasville Senior High School.

Helen (Wilkins) Bunch is homemaking at 611 Agawam Street, Elizabeth City.

Sadie (Mull) Moser, instructor in education at Curry School, Woman's College, attended the annual 23rd Reading Conference meeting at the University of Chicago in June.

Treva (Wilkerson) Mathis has been named acting librarian at Guilford College. She is president of the Greensboro Library Club and vice chairman and chairman-elect of the College and University Library Section of the North Carolina Library Association.

Next reunion in 1965

Katherine (Bonitz) Hunken now lives at 14 Homestead Road. Darien, Conn.

Rachel (Lipscomb) Graves' son, Edward, received an applied science diploma in electronics from the Gaston Technical Institute in Gastonia.

Elizabeth (Matlock) Eagles teaches at Macclesfield.

Margaret (Tomlinson) Edwards is homemaking at 901 Rountree Avenue, Kinston.

Margaret (Winder) Haley to Comdr. Alexander Blair Dusenbury (Navy ret.), May 28, Greensboro. Comdr. Dusenbury is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and the law school of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. He practiced law before entering the Navy. On his retirement he entered business and is president of McDonald's, Inc., Greensboro.

Helen (Whitener) Zink was named Teacher of the Year (1960) for Greensboro by the Junior Chamber of Commerce during May. A teacher at Proximity Junior High School for 23 of her 26 years in the teaching profession, Helen's fields are home economics and guidance. She was girls' counselor for 13 years, and she organized and sponsored the school's marshals. Of her, Proximity principal C. E. Rankin said: "There is not a finer teacher anywhere than Mrs. Zink, and she is a fine person as well. One of her strong points is her popularity with students, including boys as well as girls. Striking testimony to this is the fact that, although home economics is not a required subject in the ninth grade, it is taken by practically all of the girls . . ."

Armantine Dunlap is Mrs. Ross Groshong, Route 3, Guilford College Station, Greensboro. "Our section is planning to get an 1BM 7090 this summer, and we are all looking forward to this. It is a much faster machine and it has a larger core than the 704," wrote Barton (Edwards) Bruce '57 in December from her position with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) at Langley Field in Virginia to Dr. Helen Barton of the mathematics department.

"Much of my own work is mathematical programming for the 1BM 704. (We will have a 7090 - transitorized - eventually.)," wrote Jaylee (Montague) Burley '51 sometime ago from her NASA position in Washington, D. C., to Dr. Barton.

"Our computer is an 1BM 704, but we hope to get a 7090 in the not too distant future," wrote Mary Tuttle (Whisnant) Hedgepeth '46 from her post at the Edward's Air Base in Lancaster, California, to her aunt, Caroline (Goforth) Hogue '17.

From three parts of the country three mathematicians write of their hopes for an IBM 7090. And not only do these alumnae share a common 7090-hope; in their separate and assigned ways they are working on common projects, it would seem.

In December Barton was running trajectories on the "Little Joe" and "Atlas" for the MERCURY Project - manned capsule. She did a wind study on the project in which "Sam," the space monkey, took the ride. Joan Pitts '57 and Barton work in the Analytical Computing section under the supervision of Kathleen Wicker '45 at Langley Field.

Jaylee is in the Theoretical Division of NASA. "As the name indicates we do most of the planning—long-range—for the launching of satellites, moon probes, and such. . . . this is the overall goal, for to accomplish this involves much research in many areas of physics, astrophysics, and related fields. We are doing a lot on lunar atmosphere, magnetic fields, determination of orbits, and very practical problems for Project MERCURY: how to get the 'Space Man' back to earth."

Basically, "Mary Tuttle's job is to program, in machine language, any of the almost endless calculations required in the work of the Edward's base. Recently she has been concerned mostly with theoretical projects in connection with flight research. "A good many of my problems," she writes, "are in simulated flights or simulated missile trajectories. . . . Without actually flying a mission, we can predict what will happen in a variety of conditions—and then what will happen if we alter one or a combination of these conditions. We can predict, for instance, how far, how fast, etc."
